Computer cooling is required to remove the waste heat produced by computer components, to keep components within permissible operating temperature limits. Components that are susceptible to temporary malfunction or permanent failure if overheated include integrated circuits such as central processing units (CPUs), chipset, graphics cards, and hard disk drives.

In microelectronics, a dual in-line package (DIP or DIL), or dual in-line pin package (DIPP) is an electronic component package with a rectangular housing and two parallel rows of electrical connecting pins. The package may be through-hole mounted to a printed circuit board (PCB) or inserted in a socket. The dual-inline format was invented by Don Forbes, Rex Rice and Bryant Rogers at Fairchild ...

A comprehensive overview of through-silicon-via technology (TSV) is presented. TSV technology enables Moore's Law to scale vertically. We explore the challenges associated with running high volume TSV manufacturing.

The foot-candle is equal to one lumen per square foot and "the difference between the lux and the lumen is that the lux takes into account the area over which the luminous flux is spread. 1000 lumens, concentrated into an area of one square meter, lights up that square meter with an illuminance of 1000 lux.

Brushless Generators: Among the most common because of their inexpensive construction, brushless generators have the least reliable voltage control. Brushless generators can't react quickly to changing loads, either producing low power (a brownout) or high power. Fluctuations of this nature will cause voltage sensitive equipment like HMI lights to shut off, or will damage sensitive electronics.
